Special Issue on 2019 ISRD & ATS Joint Conference

2019 ISRD & ATS Joint Conference is being held on 24-27, October in Shanghai, China. To feature the most recent progress in the research of respiratory diseases, The Clinical Respiratory Journal (CRJ) is delighted to announce that we will collaborate with the conference to organize a special issue on related topics. Original work that is not under consideration for publication in other avenues is highly welcome. Selected submissions to the conference will also be invited by the editors to be published in the special issue. Please refer to the website of the conference for more details.

CRJ provides a forum for clinical research in all areas of respiratory medicine from clinical lung disease to basic research relevant to the clinic. CRJ is published by Wiley, edited by Prof. Chen Wang and Prof. Johns Paul. We publish original research, review articles, case studies, editorials and book reviews in all areas of clinical lung disease. Visit our website for more information about CRJ.

Author benefits:

- No submission and publication fee
- High exposure of the articles by specific promotion initiative
- Open access option
